Emergency Action Sought By Council

Declaring Hancock County in a state of emergency following action of the Board of Supervisors in rescinding the Governor's Emergency Council building code, Talmadge Rayborn, executive director of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce called a Monday night meeting for the purpose of formulating a protective code with all deliberate speed. Charles Hill was appointed chairman of the code-formulating committee and serving with him are Delmar Wilcox, an electrical engineer; Clyde Craig, an engineer; E. J. Marengo, an insurance representative; Louis Fernandez a sanitary inspector; and Ken Fuch, of the plumbing industry. The committee, agreed upon by the 22 members of the Hancock County Construction Board who were in attendance at the meeting, was charged with the responsibility of developing a code to be presented for the approval of the Board of Supervisors when they meet on Monday, January 18. Using the Southern Standard Building Code as adopted by the Governor's Emergency Council as a guideline, the committee will attempt to tailor the specifications to meet the specific needs of Hancock County. Objections to the code, which included system of administration, and some complaints lodged against the manner of the various inspections required. Also in the proposed code will provide for amendments whereas the rescinded code made mandatory a blanket acceptance. Also felt to be a weak-spot in the former code was the rather "ambiguous wording in the Board of Appeals provisions."

Committee members have pledged unselfish dedication to serve in the interest of the people of Hancock County, it was said. They seek suggestions from general contractors, merchants, and all persons within the community who have ideas and suggestions pertinent to the code. Rayborn said, "We should pool our thoughts and suggestions and come up with a composite for our mutual benefit." Members of the Board of Supervisors will be kept continuously informed of the content and progress of the code-writing prior to its presentation. They are vested with authority to accept, reject, or change the code. Once the Board of Supervisors has acted on the code, and they have verbally stated they wish to accept a suit-

Board Asks Gym Bids

The Hancock County School Board began advertising for bids today for construction of a gymnasium at the Charles B. Murphy School in Pearllington.

The Board had originally planned to advertise simultaneously for both the Murphy and Gulfview gymnasiums, but architect Fred Wagner had not completed work on the Gulfview building. Wagner stated that because of bad weather, land surveys were not complete but he advised the board that he would present finished plans to them in two weeks.

Concerning other construction, board president Ed Ortesaid that Wagner was also working on specifications for renovation of a cafeteria at Hancock North Central and construction of the high school at the Gulfview site. Wagner stated, "I am now in consultation with a kitchen expert in regard to the work on the cafeteria. We want to work out the best method that will result in a smooth food service operation."

C of C Studies Ways To Attract Industry

The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce is currently making a study of brochures being used in various small cities for the purpose of promoting tourism, attracting new industries and businesses and providing adequate information for those in other areas seeking to re-locate.

Currently the trend is to move Southward. Many inquiries are received by the Chamber, according to Talmadge Rayborn, executive director of that organization and an attractive brochure would facilitate the answering of inquiries and at the same time provide those interested with beautifully lithographed pictures to provide visual evidence of our lush semi-tropical vegetation, sports activities such as hunting, fishing and golfing, and residential settings.

The Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission also seeks to attract industry into this area and Charles H. Hill, director of that organization has been active in compiling and supplying information concerning the advantages of this location to those showing interest in development of this area.

Basic resources for industrial development include the close proximity to major ports, industrial areas and metropolitan areas of the Gulf Coast, a large acreage of raw land above tidal range, an excellent supply of fresh water, good highways and rail facilities, good climate, topography and foundation conditions as well as improved and enthusiastic outlook by county and municipal leadership.

Rayborn seeks to include all Hancock County voters in the Chamber of Commerce membership in the firm belief that "What is good for Hancock County is good for each person living in the County." Rayborn said, "We need ALL of our people and each one can help develop this county. He also seeks a closer co-ordination of effort between those living within the city limits of Bay St. Louis and Waveland and those living in the outlying areas."

"The fishing industry, small developed to a higher potential - our whole industry, cattle businesses, farming, industries, tourism, swine raising, cattle for beef, dairy farms and poultry businesses. Rayborn points out the potential for crops such as soy beans, grains, etc. and the rapidly growing forestry business.

"Let's talk Hancock County" said Rayborn, let's let people know of our facilities, our fine school system, low taxes, and let's have a part in creating some enabling legislation.

Employers in Hancock County and those interested in locating in this area may submit their wish for recruitment to the Mississippi State Employment Center Service Office in Gulfport. This agency will match requirements against the qualifications of applicants. Several small industries such as Rittner Hammel and Ingram's have reported on-the-job training for local labor forces produced better than satisfactory results.

"Let's talk Hancock County" said Rayborn, let's let people know of our facilities, our fine school system, low taxes, and let's have a part in creating some enabling legislation.

Anxious citizens gathered Monday in the trailer adjoining the Hancock County Court House which serves as a meeting room for the Board of Supervisors to voice their desire for a building code. The Governor's Emergency Council building code, in effect until two weeks ago, was rescinded by Board members majority vote leaving residents in the county with no alternate code to protect them against sub-standard building practices. The GEC code also provided standards acceptable and rendering property insurable.

Russell Elliott, president of the Board and the only supervisor voting in favor of the code, opened the meeting with the introduction of Bay St. Louis City Commissioner William Frisbie and said "Commissioner Frisbie came as a city official and has asked for a short time". In addressing the Board, Frisbie said "My purpose in being here is to ask the Board to please reconsider the adoption of the building code for Hancock County. I don't ask that you accept the G.E.C. as authority, but I do ask that you reconsider." Frisbie further stated without the compliance with a building code there could be problems with flood insurance and added "We (the City of Bay St. Louis) are not about to drop the code. Our problem is who is to administer."

Elliott said "It is our understanding if you have a comparable code the insurance people have no objections."

E. J. Marengo, representing Coastal Insurance Agency, addressed the Board by saying, "I am here to strongly voice objections to your decision of last meeting (to rescind the code). I think it was one of the most ridiculous decisions the Board has ever made." Marengo stated the insurance rates would definitely be affected and concluded: "I think you should readopt the building code."

Others spelling out the urgent need for code adoption were Robert Boudin, president of the

Demolition Estimated

Approximately 40 residences and business places in the City of Bay St. Louis will be condemned and demolished, according to an estimate made on Tuesday by B. H. Johnson, chief building inspector for the city. Johnson said he would give the property owners ample notice and there would be a lapse of about 40 days from first notice until the time of demolition.

Office of the building inspector is at 303 Carroll Avenue, in the same building with the Police Station. The telephone number is 467-4377, and Johnson said he hopes people with questionable property will get in touch with him. He believes he can save them money on the demolition costs.

In cases where the city will instigate the wrecking of the buildings the work will be let out to contractors on bid. In some cases there will be salvageable materials in the buildings that can be sold to help defray the cost of the demolition, Johnson said.

The office of Inspector Johnson is open between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m. and the chief said he would like to talk with anyone interested in trying to work out the best way to get their condemned buildings torn down.

...were asked of Jack ... Gulf Regional Planning Commission Director and of ... attorney for the county, in an attempt to clear up the confusion as to whether Hancock County could, by request, enter the G.E.C. and comply with the requirements of the building code. The code administered by the G.E.C. was also funded by that organization. With the adoption of a different code came the problem of financing the administration for which the county supervisors say no provisions in the budget have been made. It was Benvenuti's legal opinion that the G.E.C. code could not be reactivated. Supervisor Kellar commented: "If we were to adopt what we are right back where we started from." Benvenuti remarked: "I don't think the county should be without protection." In evaluating the precarious position of those living in the county the question was asked: "What if these supervisors tarry in making a decision?" At this point several in the audience walked out of the meeting.

Supervisor Heck Monday made and the resolution adopted that the G.E.C. code be re-adopted. He said: "If we have made a mistake let's admit it." Talmadge Rayborn, executive director of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce ended the day-long hearing which was beginning to deteriorate in a quandary by asking permission of the Board for the Chamber of Commerce to appoint a committee to write and submit a code tailored to the needs of Hancock County. "That is what your Chamber is for," Rayborn said. "We are here to help the community." "Those are the prettiest words I've heard all day," remarked supervisor Cuevas, apparently eager to have someone assume the responsibility. Rayborn told the Board members the code would be submitted for their consideration at Monday's meeting (January 18). The Board of Supervisors are the final authority and have the right to accept or reject or re-word the submitted code. Following code acceptance by the Board a three week period of publication is required before effective date of the instrument.

The Code-writing Committee headed by Charles Hill, met nightly to deliberate pertinent points. The code must be stringent enough to meet the requirements of insuring firms, yet liberal enough to be acceptable to county builders whose main objections have hinged around conditions of inspections, employment and administration through local personnel, and the need to keep building costs down.

SPORTS

Height was again the factor Tuesday night in St. Stanislaus gym as Pass Christian's Pirates defeated the Rockchaws 71-62. However, the game was a thriller and the Rocks may have won except for a 27-16 first quarter deficit. Also, the Rockchaws gave the Pirates 28 free throws and they capitalized on 23.

Stanislaus' Bob Hogan was the game's high scorer with 23 points and Jim Oustalet added 15. For the Pass Jay Lang hit 18, Wayne Ladner 17, Lonnie Necaise 14 and William Swanner 12. Rocks Ted Schuler, Gerard Lynnel and Curtis Taylor fouled out. It was the only local game scheduled.

Such practices when made mandatory would protect homeowners against faulty construction, bad wiring, and unacceptable plumbing; would provide insurable property; would reduce insurance rates by compliance with standards spelled out by insuring associations.

"It is time the people of this county become more involved in their welfare," Rayborn said and added "There has been too much complacency and apathy -- and I am afraid too much selfishness." Rayborn said those in political positions should be informed by the people of their wishes. "We can't place all the blame on the supervisors," Rayborn said. "The truth is most people just sat back and didn't speak out in defending the code."

BAY HIGH'S 35TH INVITATIONAL
There are numerous reasons but most everyone agrees that day High's annual invitational basketball tournament is one of the top athletic events of the season and this year's version, which starts next Tuesday and runs through Saturday, promises to be one of the best ever. It will be the 35th consecutive year the tourney has been conducted.

One reason of course is location. Bay St. Louis is a popular resort city, among other things, and with so many persons looking for a reason to come here Bay High's invitational offers a perfect excuse.

Then there is Bay High's gym, nicknamed the Tigerdome, which seats about 3,000 persons comfortably.

Also is the fact that the young men and women athletes in this area covet Bay High's championship trophies and each year play their hearts out trying to win the prizes, resulting in some thrilling cliffhangers that keep the crowds on their feet.

DEFENDING CHAMPS

Harrison Central is defending champion in both boys' and girls' divisions but they are certainly no cinch to repeat — most anyone moving the record of the schools entered will agree the outcome is a toss-up. In fact, this writer might lean to the Hancock North Central Hawks now that Ricky Paige has returned to the starting lineup. The Hawks have been unbeatable since Ricky's return. The girls' division is also a you-name-it bet but look for some tough competition from HNC's Hawkets and Stone County's girls. And don't count out coach Willie Bradley's Bay High Tigerettes — they're always a threat. But of course, the defending champs, Harrison Central's boys and girls could take it all again.

Local cagers named to last year's all-tournament team were Curtis St. Mary, St. Stanislaus; Greg Shaw and Ricky Paige, Hancock North Central; Danne Caldwell, Bay High. All Star girls were Mary Ledner and Peggy Haas of HNC; Geannie Johnson and Noel Phillips of Bay High.

MIKE NECAISE

One of the greatest stars ever to perform in the tournament was Mike (GoGo) Necaise who sometime scored 50 or more points in one game. Last Thursday Mike took over the No. 1 spot on William Carey College's all-time scoring list. He had a 32-point effort for the night as Carey routed Mississippi College 122-99.

Necaise needed only 22 points going into the game to break the old scoring record of Joe Stover and with a little more than 10 minutes gone in the second half sank his record breaking point.

Necaise's career points now total 1,664 as compared to 1,650 by Stover. Carey has 14 games remaining and Necaise should pass the 2,000 mark — he is averaging 28.0 points per game.

It will be a long time before local fans forget Mike Necaise.

Bay High Defeats St. Martin, 2-1

Three St. Martin basketball teams invaded the Tigerdome Monday night determined to avenge recent defeats by Bay High and almost emerged with three victories.

The Tigers never could warm up and dropped the feature to the Yellow Jackets 72-58 but the Tigerettes fought gamely to win their game 42-38 and the B-Tigers did likewise winning 36-35 in the final seconds when young Joey Smith hit the basket from 12 feet out with two seconds left to win the game. Alvin Lafontaine was high scorer with 11 points.

The Tigerettes gave St. Martin's girls 43 free throws of which they sunk 16 and the local looses had to overcome a three-point deficit going into the final frame which they did, winning by four. Schvander Bell led with 12 points, Kim Bell made 11, all in the final quarter. Robin Lizano added 9, Susan Ledner and Pat Dorsey 5 each. Adelle Jones and Katie Oliver scored 14 and 13 respectively for St. Martin.

The Tigers, having defeated St. Martin by 19 points last month, got off to a fair start but were cold and could only hit 34 per cent from the floor while the Yellow Jackets bucked 52 per cent. Willie Thomas was good for 24 but St. Martin's Keith Nelson was top scorer with 27.

Leakesville Shimmies North Central

Leakesville's Shimmies Moore has to be rated among the top prep school cagers in Mississippi.

Once again the lanky lad from East Mississippi was just too much for Hancock North Central's Hawks and Leakesville staged a repeat performance of a recent game played in North Central's gym, this time coming on strong in the first half to defeat the Hawks 91-80 at Leakesville.

Shimmies shoved in 37 points while Hancock's ace, Ricky Paige racked up 29. Also for HNC C.J. Saucier scored 14, O'Neal Cuevas 13 and Danny Martin 12. Joel Pike added 21 and Henry Bell 20 for the host team.

Sewerage Draining Into Open Ditch

Sanitary Inspector have been notified of an unhealthy situation existing on Sycamore Street where sewerage from two homes is reportedly draining into the open ditch in front of the houses. Owners of the homes are Riley Watson whose address is 548 Sycamore and Lee Todd who is his next-door neighbor.

Watson said he moved into his home on May 23, 1969. He said it was financed through the Farmers' Home Administration with Newkirk, who lives on Catahoula Street in Pass Christian, as contractor.

Neighbors have complained frequently about the offensive odor and several appeals have reportedly been made both to the city officials and the Health Department. A neighbor, Mrs. Mae Williams said last summer the smell got so bad they were forced to keep the doors closed all the time, and they worried about the children who played along the edge of the ditch.

No municipal sewer lines have been installed in this section, it was said.

Forest Fires Big Problem For County

An estimated 1,169 acres of forest have been burned in Hancock County in 15 separate fires since July 1, 1970, according to Jim Craft, forest aide.

Michael Hendry, Mississippi Forestry Commission, said that most of these fires have been purposely set.

The penalty for anyone found guilty of setting a forest fire is up to two years imprisonment, a fine of $1,000 or both. While it is believed that 90% of the fires have been set by arsonists, some fires as a "control burn" which gets out of hand.

Asked to define a "control burn", Craft said any landowner is within his rights to set a control fire on his property, however, he runs a risk when the fire gets out of hand and on another person's acreage.

Craft said it was advisable for those wishing to set a control fire to first notify the forester by telephoning 255-7152. A recommended precaution to practice when setting a "control burn" is to plough a fire lane to keep the fire localized, and of course no fire should be left unattended.

Craft said should a fire get out of control the fire fighters are well equipped to handle the situation. As long as the fire is fought on the property of the person who set the "control fire" there is no charge for fire fighting, however, should the fire cross into adjacent property the fire fighting cost is $12.50 per hour. Those allowing a controlled fire to get out of hand are liable and the penalty could be 3 months imprisonment or $500 fine or both.

There have been no forest fires in Hancock County during the period of January 1 to date and this is due to the rainfall, however Hendry said.

"This is forest fire season in Mississippi. Several sections of the state have already witnessed some very destructive woods fires. Thousands of dollars of timber have already been destroyed. Most of these fires were started by carelessness and arson."

"Fire has no care and knows no pain. In most cases, the pain is felt by someone other than the person starting the fire. Most people in Mississippi do not realize the danger that a forest fire can cause. Many landowners are hindered from increasing their standard of living by someone's carelessness. Landowners are deprived of many, many things that other people might enjoy. Many young people have been hindered from going to college because fire destroyed their timber - timber that would have been their means of securing a higher education."

Hurricane Camille caused a tremendous amount of damage, fires weaken trees further and kill many that survived the storm.

People in Mississippi often complain about the destruction of woods fires because they are not directly deprived of economic value, but everytime a woods fire occurs, some loss value.

Hospital Auxiliary Installs Officers

Newly elected officers for the Hancock General Hospital Auxiliary were installed on Thursday morning and service pins and patches were awarded during an impressive ceremony and prior to the pink tea service given in honor of the executives.

The gavel of authority was transferred from Mrs. A. S. Klempeter to Mrs. Clarence Evans. Mrs. Klempeter served two terms as Auxiliary President and is now a member of the Board of Governors. Installation officer, Mrs. Joseph E. Vignerie, used the wording of the Auxiliaries Prayer in the service and by explanation of color-designation in corsage ribbons pointed out the duties of each office. As the pink carnation corsages were pinned in place by Mrs. Henry Chapman, the installing officer said: "Guide us so that we may use the privilege given us to help the aged, the ill and the very young -- with generosity with discretion and with gentleness... Grant us wisdom and humility in directing our efforts to do for others only as Thou would have us do." In addition to the president who was installed with a purple ribbon, signifying Royalty and "knowing the office of President requires the wisdom of Solomon, the patience of Job and the vision of Elizabeth", other officers included Mrs. Herman Sylvester, 1st Vice President, whose pink ribbon signified administration of the pink-ladies services; Mrs. Orin Pilkey, 2nd Vice President, whose multi-colored ribbons were selected because of the many and varied duties of the office; Miss Alma Parker, Secretary, with a blue ribbon for accuracy and truth; Mrs. W. Cebelle Jones, treasurer, with a self-explanatory gold ribbon; and Mrs. Walter Dupiquier, Corresponding Secretary whose white ribbon -- a clean page -- and a reminder that "the written word is never truly erased."

500 hour service pins were awarded Mmes. W. D. Jones, A. S. Klempeter and J. L. Marochino and a 100 hour service pin was awarded Miss Alma Parker.

Mmes. D. T. Mooney and Miss Greenfield received service patches. Pink service mats were used on the tea table and trays with cookies, tea, sandwiches, and candies were decorated with pink carnations, carnations, dainty pink flowerettes decorated some sandwiches while the pink-lady theme was repeated in colorings used in sandwich fills. Mrs. Smith presented a check to the Auxiliary in appreciation of hospital space given for the display of her paintings. The check represented a commission on paintings sold.
